Brief Biography

Dr. Dan W. Puchniak is the Yong Pung How Professor of Law in the Yong Pung How School of Law (YPHSL) at Singapore Management University, the Director of the YPHSL Centre for Commercial Law in Asia, a Co-Leader of the Singapore Capital Markets Initiative (SCMI), the Inaugural Director of the Asian Corporate Law Forum (ACLF), a Research Member of the European Corporate Governance Institute (ECGI), and a founding Co-Editor-in-Chief of the Cambridge Forum on Corporate Climate Governance. Dan is an internationally recognized scholar in the field of comparative corporate law and governance, with a focus on Asia.

Dan has received numerous domestic and international awards for his academic research and teaching – most recently, the 2023 Cleary Gottlieb Law Prize, which is widely considered the top annual prize in the world for corporate law scholarship, and the 2025 YPHSL Most Outstanding Legal Studies Teacher Award. Dan's research has been profiled in The Economist, The Japan Times, and The Business Times and is regularly published in leading corporate and comparative law journals. His research has pioneered the emerging field of intra-Asian comparative corporate law and governance.

Dan sits on the editorial boards of several leading Asian law, comparative law, and corporate law journals. He has held visiting academic positions and given invited lectures at leading universities around the world, including Cambridge University, Chulalongkorn University, Columbia University, Harvard University, Lomonosov Moscow State University, Melbourne University, Nagoya University, Oxford University, Queen's University, Reichman University, Seoul National University, Stanford University, University of Chicago, University of Pennsylvania, University of Tokyo, University of Trento, University of Victoria, University of Warsaw, Vanderbilt University, and Yangon University. He has advised international organizations on the development of corporate law in Asia, served as an expert in high stakes complex corporate law disputes in Asia, and his research has been cited several times by Singapore's apex court.

Prior to joining the YPHSL, Dan was a tenured faculty member at the National University of Singapore, Faculty of Law (NUS Law). During his 14 years at NUS Law, Dan served as the Director of the Centre for Asian Legal Studies (CALS), Editor-in-Chief of the Asian Journal of Comparative Law (Cambridge University Press), and Director for Corporate Law at the EW Barker Centre for Law & Business. He won multiple faculty and university level teaching awards and was the first member of the Faculty of Law to be placed on the NUS Annual Teaching Excellence Award Honour Roll. Prior to entering academia, Dan worked as a corporate commercial litigator at one of Canada's leading law firms.

2017 – 2018

National University of Singapore Centre for Asian Legal Studies (CALS) and EW Barker Centre for Law & Business (EWBCLB), Co-Principal Investigator

- Co-organized with Steven Davidoff Solomon, Stavros Gadinis, Umakanth Varottil, Wan Wai Yee, and Samuel Weinstein, a joint research project involving Berkeley Law, NUS Law (CALS and EWBCLB) and SMU Law on “Comparative Corporate Governance in Asia and the United States”
- The project involved conferences at Berkeley Law (February 2017) and NUS Law (January 2018)
- Received an approximately S$35,000 grant from CALS and EWBCLB to co-fund this project with additional funding provided by Berkeley Law and SMU Law
- The research project output was two special issues in the Berkeley Business Law Journal focusing on comparative corporate law in Asia and the United States

2016 – 2018

National University of Singapore Centre for Asian Legal Studies (CALS), Principal Investigator

- Organized a small closed conference at NUS Law on “Corporate Governance in Asia” (February 22-23, 2016)
- The conference was a follow up to a successful conference funded by Hitotsubashi University organized by Bruce Aronson with the aim of producing a textbook on Corporate Governance in Asia
- Received an approximately S$10,000 grant from the NUS Centre for Asian Legal Studies (CALS) for the conference
- The conferences produced a textbook on Corporate Governance in Asia which was published by Cambridge University Press in 2018
- The textbook was edited by Bruce Aronson and Joongi Kim, with significant contributions from several NUS Law faculty members (including myself)

2014 – 2017

National University of Singapore Centre for Asian Legal Studies (CALS) and EW Barker Centre for Law & Business (EWBCLB), Principal Investigator

- Organized a conference at NUS Law on “Independent Directors in Asia” (February 26-27, 2015)
- Received an approximately S$75,000 grant from CALS and EWBCLB for the conference and publication
- The NUS Law conference was part of a joint book project, which built on a conference organized by Harald Baum and funded by, and held at, the Max Planck Institute for Comparative and International Private Law (in cooperation with the Japanese-German Centre Berlin and German-Japanese Association of Jurists), on “Independent Directors in Japan and Other Major Asian Jurisdictions” (July 17-18, 2014)
- The research project produced a co-edited/co-authored book on “Independent Directors in Asia” published by Cambridge University Press in 2017 in which I was the Lead Editor and co-author of 3 chapters
- The research project also produced a co-authored article (with Luh Luh Lan) published in the American Journal of Comparative Law (AJCL) on Independent Directors in Singapore (which was the first article published on Singapore law in the AJCL since Singapore’s independence in 1965)

2013 – 2016

National University of Singapore, Principal Investigator

- Received an approximately S$43,000 AcRF grant for a research project entitled “Comparative Corporate Law and Governance in Asia: Complexity Revealed”
- The project re-examined the foundational theories of comparative corporate law – which have been largely derived from the Anglo-American experience – by examining them through the lens of corporate law and governance in Asia’s leading economies

- The project resulted in the creation of the theory of “External Benefits of Control” which was developed into a book chapter and has laid the foundation for a future book project on comparative corporate governance in Asia

2013 – 2014

National University of Singapore Centre for Law & Business (CLB) and Vanderbilt Law and Business Program, Co-Principal Investigator

- Co-organized, with Randall Thomas, two joint conferences at Vanderbilt Law School (September 26-27, 2013) and NUS Law (March 6-7, 2014) on “Shareholder Power”
- Received an approximately $100,000 joint grant for the two conferences from the NUS Centre for Law & Business and the Vanderbilt Law and Business Program
- The conference resulted in an edited volume by Randall Thomas and Jennifer Hill on “Shareholder Power” which included several important contributions from NUS Law faculty members and several other leading corporate law professors from around the world

2009 – 2013

National University of Singapore, Principal Investigator

- Lead organizer, co-editor, and author of multiple chapters of a book project on Derivative Actions in Asia
- Received an approximately S$70,000 AcRF research grant for the book project
- The book included authors from the University of Cambridge, Max Planck Institute, Seoul National University, Nagoya University, National Taiwan University, National University of Singapore, Hong Kong University, The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Monash University, George Washington University, and University of Michigan
- The Derivative Actions in Asia Conference was held at the National University of Singapore on July 23-24, 2010
- The conference book was published by Cambridge University Press and has received positive reviews and endorsements from numerous leaders in the fields of comparative law and comparative corporate law
- My article produced from this research project was awarded the Best Paper Prize at the Corporate Law Teachers Conference – the flagship annual conference for the Australian Corporate Law Teachers Association which attracts leading Australian and international corporate law scholars

2009 – 2012

National University of Singapore, Principal Investigator

- Received a S$30,000 AcRF research grant for a 3-year project on Comparative Corporate Governance in Asia
- The project produced an influential article in the field of comparative and Japanese corporate law, resulted in numerous invitations to lecture in leading law schools around the world and formed the foundation for a larger project on the derivative action in Asia

2006 – 2007

Kyushu University Graduate School of Law, Principal Investigator

- The Corporate Governance in East Asia Conference, February 10, 2007
- Funding for the project of approximately $30,000 received from the Japanese Government, Kyushu University and Skadden LLP
- Lead organizer of the conference which included contributors from Harvard, Duke, Peking University, Seoul National University, and Skadden LLP and over 60 participants
- Negotiated the conference sponsorship agreement with Skadden LLP
- The conference materials were published as a special issue of the Asian-Pacific Law & Policy Journal
