Stefanie Schacherer is Assistant Professor of Law at the Singapore Management University (SMU), Yong Pung How School of Law. Her specialization is international economic law, with a particular focus on international investment law at the intersection with sustainable development objectives and regulation.

EDUCATION AND CAREER

Stefanie Schacherer holds the degrees of Doktorin der Rechtswissenschaften from the University of Vienna and Docteure en droit from the University of Geneva (summa cum laude, July 2019). The thesis was written as part of a cotutelle de thèse between the two universities. She obtained an LL.M. in International Business Law from King's College London (2014, funded by the Ernst and Lucie Schmidheiny Foundation), a Master in International and European Law (2013) and a Bachelor of Laws (2011) both from the University of Geneva. Prior to joining SMU, she was a Postdoctoral Fellow at the Centre for International Law at the National University of Singapore, and a Research Fellow at the World Trade Institute (WTI), University of Bern. Her postdoctoral research received funding from the Swiss National Science Foundation (SNSF).

Dr Schacherer has published widely on international economic law, sustainable development and investment law, and the European Union's external trade relations. Her monograph titled Sustainable Development in EU Foreign Investment Law (Brill Nijhoff, 2021) offers an account of the legal effects of sustainable development within the EU's international trade and investment law-making and global economic governance.

Dr Schacherer provided technical assistance and capacity-building for several developing countries (such as, Rwanda, Burkina Faso and Madagascar) and worked for governmental and non-governmental organizations, including the UN Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD), the European External Action Service, the African Union and the International Institute for Sustainable Development (IISD). She currently serves an advisor for the UN Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (UNESCAP) and is an elected member of the Academic Forum on Investor-State Dispute Settlement, UN Commission on International Trade Law (UNCITRAL).

RESEARCH AREAS AND INTERESTS

Dr Schacherer is particularly interested in international trade agreements and their intersection with sustainable development objectives and regulation; EU external relations law; international investment law and arbitration; climate change and renewable energy law; the financing of the Sustainable Development Goals, including sustainable finance initiatives; the social responsibility of multinational corporations and investors; ethics and international affairs; and the participation of civil society in global economic governance.
